

MAC Mission

The McCormick Advisory Council By-Laws, which describe the purpose of the MAC, provide guidance regarding the expectations of the Council and its members

By-Laws – Purpose of MAC

- To provide feedback and counsel to the Dean of the McCormick School of Engineering and Applied Science from industrial, academic, and alumni perspectives to ensure excellence in education for undergraduate and graduate level engineering students
- To review individual departments and programs and suggest changes or new initiatives in engineering education and research
- To encourage positive interactions with industry, government, and academia, including the Career Development program, research, and graduate recruitment
- To extend knowledge about the McCormick School locally, nationally, and globally.
- To play a leadership role in raising private and government support for the McCormick School

The expectations of the MAC have been used as a guideline in developing a Framework to assess the activities of individual MAC Members

MAC Member Contributions Framework

A Framework for guiding the activities of MAC Members was developed by extending the purpose and objectives of the MAC into a set of individual Member Expectations, including Measurement Criteria and Targets
